NGK ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENT OF GRAHAM BANGS AS OEM SALES ENGINEER

NGK Spark Plugs (UK) Limited, the leading spark plug manufacturer, has announced the appointment of Graham Bangs to the position of OEM Sales Engineer with immediate effect.

He is pictured (right) with Brian Childs, NGK UK's Deputy Managing Director, Sales & Marketing. In his role he will liaise with vehicle manufacturers such as Ford, Honda and BMW in the UK, working closely with their Purchasing and Engineering Departments to oversee the application of their spark plug, glow plug and Lambda sensor requirements through to production.

Graham Bangs - 51 and married with one daughter – is a well-known face in the UK automotive industry. He joins NGK from Webcon UK Limited where he was Engineering & Operations Director.

“Graham has enormous experience of the UK automotive industry at both OE and Aftermarket level,” says Brian Childs. “He has dealt with OEMs all his working life and knows the NGK customer base very well at both OE and Aftermarket level. His appointment will strengthen our team in this important area and we are delighted that he has joined us at NGK.”
